Conditions:

1. Canada Protection Plan may withdraw any plans at any time without notice.
2. Canada Protection Plan will determine the commission rates on all plans or riders not listed in the above commission schedule, on changed policies and on policies replacing terminated policies (whether the new policy is issued before or after the termination) where the same insured is involved.
3. If Canada Protection Plan returns a premium or a part of a premium to the policy owner or the beneficiary, the Broker will waive all rights to any commission on that returned premium, and will repay any commission received on that premium.
4. Annualization of commissions: Canada Protection Plan may, at its sole option, pay first year annualized commission on the following basis:
 - a. When a policy is settled, the first year commission will be calculated and paid to the Broker on the assumption that the full annual premium has been paid, provided that the total annualized commissions on all policies on the same life do not exceed $5,000.
 - b. In the event that any policy terminates before a full 24 months of premiums have been received by the insurer, the Broker will immediately pay to Canada Protection Plan a pro-rata share of first year commissions paid to the Broker.

If the premium mode of the policy is monthly at the time of issue, the amount paid by the Broker will equal $\text{commission paid} \times [23 - (\text{months of non } $0.00 \text{ premiums paid})]/23$. If the policy terminates before the premium for the second month is paid, 100% of the first year commission will be payable to Canada Protection Plan.

If the premium mode of the policy was annual at the time of issue, the amount paid by the Broker will equal $\text{commission paid} \times [24 - (\text{months of premium paid})]/24$.
 - c. Canada Protection Plan may, in its sole discretion, offset such amount against amounts payable by Canada Protection Plan to the Broker. Canada Protection Plan may decline to annualize commissions for a particular policy or policies, and may, in whole or in part, discontinue the practice of annualizing commissions.
5. All commissions paid on policies sold on the Broker's own life and/or family member(s) and/or relatives or friends of the Broker will be paid as earned.
6. When a client pays the annual premium by credit card, there will be a 3% reduction to the first year commission based on that annual premium.
